

In my last report I suggested that the destiny of the Club Championship might become clearer in the following weeks. After a remarkable away win over Aylesbury by a Wycombe and Hazlemere side minus half the normal first team, Wycombe have stamped their authority on the competition with further wins over Bourne End and Berkhamsted and now look strong favourites to re-claim the title, with Gerrards Cross the only team that can stop them [surely 'us' Ed] The two sides meet on March 2. The runners-up spot could still go to any of four sides, whilst right at the bottom it is still too close to call; Bourne End 2 almost certainly need to win against Wycombe and Hazlemere 2 on March 9, but have to overcome a significant difference in game point as well.

Division 2 is being dominated by Slough 1 who managed two wins inside three days last week to retain their 100% record.

And for those who enjoy the odd statistic or just like seeing their names in print, the top ten points scorers in Div 1 as at 15 February.
